Even in the midst of withdrawal, we turned to hobbies or new pursuits that were engrossing and would consume some time and energy. As the addictive cravings lessened, we often found ourselves actively enjoying these new activities and the discovery, or re-discovery, of talents. We have among S.L.A.A. members, new Ph.D.'s, new musicians, new marathon runners, and new artists. By definition, our image of ourselves expanded to include these new developed talents, and these lead to new and healthy roles in the world... p.140, SLAA Basic Text
